

Rostam was sad to hear the news, but he soon thought of a plan.

He left for the land of the enemy with his men, all wearing merchants' robes, and he took with him a hundred camels carrying goods and treasures.

