A Few Words from the Introduction:

".... In today's technological world we often lose our connection with anything of sacred value that can provide a balance for the disequilibrating factors that we encounter on a daily basis. It is our hope that the insights provided in Christian Spirit, both through the words of these great sages and through sacred art from over a millennium of Christianity, will help each of us to better understand the sacred spirit that dwells within every person."

— Michael Oren Fitzgerald

It is indeed the same spirit which runs through the diversity of forms. It shows that the Christian heritage still shines today in its sacred art."

— Jean-Pierre LaFouge — Marquette University

"This is a beautiful book that captures the nobility of the human spirit in pursuit of God. Writings from great spiritual teachers throughout the ages shine like jewels on every page. This book is a worthwhile treasure for those who seek the pearl of great price."

— Sr. Ilia Delio, O.S.F. - Washington Theological Union, author of Crucified Love: Bonaventure's Mysticism of the Crucified Christ

"The goal of this splendid book is to provide a taste of both the spiritual wisdom and sacred art (iconography) of Christianity during the first 1500 years of its existence. Another goal is to present on almost every page stunningly beautiful works of art in color...that embody the spiritual vision of Christianity. Combining exquisite art and short quotes from the Church Fathers...make this volume a spiritual gem of inspiration for daily meditation. Makes a superb gift. "

— Light and Life Publishing

"Each of these profound quotations and each of these wonderful images take us back centuries in time; they also take us to the very heart of what matters in the world. Readers should dwell on them. Meditating on just one of these every morning will add depth to each day."

— Rev. Dr. John Chryssavgis, author of In the Heart of the Desert

"This delightful, pocket-sized book lends itself to becoming a companion for the thoughtful religious person on his or her journey through a secular world. As nourishing to the eye as to the intellect, it offers carefully selected insights from writers from the earliest Christian era to the Middle Ages, from Syria, Alexandria, Lyons, Assisi and Norwich, to name but a few of the homes of these spiritual giants. The text is beautifully juxtaposed to inspirational illustrations, all breathtakingly beautiful, be they of mosaics, manuscripts or appropriately sepia-tinted photographs of classic monastic sites."

— Hannah Hunt, independent scholar working in Patristics and Early Church history in universities throughout England

“A copy of this beautiful little book should be in every home. Offering after offering overwhelms us with consciousness of Heaven’s generosity to Christianity in the way of sacred art, whether it be the art of the icon, the art of book illumination or the marvels of Byzantine, Romanesque and Gothic architecture.”
